Overall comments from the judges:

We were pleased to see such high-quality entries being submitted by individuals and would like to thank all the entrants for taking the time and putting in the effort to create their reports. We congratulate the highly commended individuals, whose reports stood out.

All the entries had different points of strength and some of the elements that the judges liked in the shortlisted entries included good iconography and use of colour to add visual appeal to the reports, good linking of different data, use of excel and use of filters, and the inclusion of an executive summary.
