Overall comments from the judges:

We were pleased to see such a strong field of high-quality entries and would like to thank all the entrants for taking the time and putting in the effort to create their reports. We congratulate the highly commended teams, whose reports stood out.

The shortlisted entries all had different points of strength and some of the elements that the judges liked included comprehensive analysis with detailed explanation of the approaches and processes used, good interactivity allowing the user to explore and discover, and well laid out dashboard, with strong iconography/graphics and good use of colour.

The brief changes each year, so everyone starts from a level playing field. Why not show us what you can do in 2021?
